

CPA Collegiate Action Network (CPA CAN)

2023 Participant Terms of Reference

PURPOSE

CPA CAN is the cutting-edge collegiate leadership program of the Commonwealth Prevention Alliance (CPA). It is designed to create opportunities for college students to develop new skills and new ways of engaging their peers around stimulant and opioid misuse prevention and positive mental health across the state of Pennsylvania. The program encourages powerful, thoughtful, and strategic collaboration.

The inaugural year of CPA CAN will leverage the passion, lived experiences, and talents of students who are passionate about solving problems—connecting them to their peers across many disciplines, building strategic high-trust relationships, and offering practical skills for enhancing their own lives, their schools, and their communities. Working in partnership with a wide variety of local partners, CPA is launching CPA CAN to connect a diverse cohort of students committed to peer-to-peer leadership engagement around opioid and stimulant misuse prevention and mental health issues.

PARTICIPANT EXPECTATIONS

CPA CAN participants will work together to ...

- ▶ Engage in experiences designed around their interests and PA's opioid and stimulant misuse prevention and mental health needs;
- ▶ Help create messages to be used on your campus by utilizing PA's PaStart and PaStop campaigns;
- ▶ Expand the way prevention is defined and addressed on college campuses;
- ▶ Fully explore problems, proposing bold solutions with achievable implementation strategies;
- ▶ Develop and implement a signature project to champion—one that spurs others into action;
- ▶ Regularly share ideas and outputs with CPA's Executive Director; and
- ▶ Advocate for resources, decision-making, and action to implement effective prevention in PA.

Participants can expect to participate 3-5 hours per month from January to May 2023.

BENEFITS OF PARTICIPATION

Participants in the CPA CAN program will work together as part of an amazing team to change the ways in which prevention is defined and addressed on college campuses across PA. Participants will engage in continuous learning, personal growth opportunities, and deep community engagement.

- ◆ Support Your Work — CPA is committed to ensuring that everyone has the opportunity to participate in CPA CAN. All participants will receive a $500 honorarium.
- ◆ Experience Excellence in Every Encounter — A leader is often recognized for their innovative, outside-the-box thinking and their ability to get things done. As a participant, you will be working with other students who share this unique experience.
- ◆ Understand Your Personal Leadership Style — As a student, you have already achieved some measure of success (and no doubt faced difficult issues). CPA CAN will help you apply the lessons you've learned to incredibly difficult-to-solve problems, while acquiring new leadership skills.
- ◆ Build Enduring High-Trust Relationships — CPA CAN will create spaces where students can let down their guard, be themselves, and build high-trust relationships with their peers.
- ◆ Find More Meaning in Your Work — As students achieve greater levels of success, it can become increasingly difficult to find balance in one's life. Most people want to be a part of something bigger than themselves. They want to make a difference. They want to leave a legacy. CPA CAN will help you achieve that legacy.
- ◆ Challenge Your Status Quo — When asked about their success, leaders throughout history have described close and enduring relationships with mentors, confidants, and friends—often those with whom they have significant differences of opinion. CPA CAN has been designed as a space to cultivate and nurture those kinds of relationships; an environment where students push and challenge and argue and debate.

2023 Background & Qualifications

BACKGROUND

The Commonwealth Prevention Alliance (CPA) is the foremost voice of prevention in the state of Pennsylvania and engages with inspiring organizations who share a common goal: to eliminate substance misuse and risk-related behaviors among Pennsylvanians. CPA's mission is to nurture, train, and support the professionals who are doing this essential work—understanding that prevention organizations need leaders with integrity, vision, and the ability to get things done.

CPA CAN is rooted in Common Ground's LEAD Model,SM which is borne out of a servant leader paradigm and is designed for leaders who are willing to work harder than they have ever worked in service of a goal that transcends personal interests. Entrepreneurial in spirit and team-based in approach, CPA CAN represents an approach to leadership development anchored by the experiences, knowledge, and skills of young people committed to public service and public problem-solving. This program has been designed to support PA college students in crafting advocacy messages and campaigns that will persuade their peers to make thoughtful decisions when it comes to the use of substances and their own mental and physical health—messaging that can be leveraged through PA START and PA STOP.

CURRICULUM & FACULTY

CPA CAN assumes a level of proficiency among its participants when it comes to managing student responsibilities. During this program, you will be given the tools to carry out the project and we will be with you during the entire process. The curriculum focuses on how to bring about strategic change and how to bring a group of people through that change process. Philosophically, CPA CAN recognizes the natural tension that exists between individual development (human potential) and community development (social responsibility). CPA CAN will focus on four key concepts (passion, change, trust, and gratitude) and six core principles to stimulate and cultivate each participant's unique leadership profile, while simultaneously supporting them as they work together to expand the definition of prevention in PA and address the issues important to them.

Discussions will be lead by local, national, and international experts from government, the academic community, and the social profit and private sectors. CPA CAN will strive to maintain relevance to local events and priorities and will be constantly evolving its approach to meet the unique and changing needs of its student participants.

CONTINUING SERVICE

In addition to the program curriculum, CPA CAN provides many long-term benefits to its participants. The student network—which CPA CAN members will build for themselves—will be supported by follow-up sessions and related activities for all CPA CAN graduates. Graduates may also have the opportunity to participate in other CPA activities, including its annual conference. By providing initial and ongoing training, as well as continuing exposure to leaders in the sector and other resources, CPA CAN will assist participants in achieving their career goals.

QUALIFICATIONS

CPA CAN applicants should be outstanding student leaders who are in a position to bring about strategic change within their school communities. A CPA CAN candidate will usually be a student who has some decision making authority in a collegiate organization. Some students from smaller schools may have fewer opportunities, but should still be able to demonstrate some measure of previous leadership experience. Candidates should be committed to prevention and to working in a diverse environment. Applicants should be eager to take on broader responsibilities with the goal of leading prevention efforts on their campus. CPA CAN prioritizes the participation of students of color, women, younger students, and students with untapped leadership potential. Priority will be given to students in their first three years of college, as well as first generation students. Applicants must be a currently enrolled student at an accredited PA college or university.
